Portfolio activity and comment

The current climate of falling markets has raised regulatory concerns over “less liquid” investments and this has manifested itself into a requirement to apply a valuation, or price, to assets as if one had to sell them today regardless of demand. Otherwise known as "Fair Value Pricing" this procedure pays scant attention to the long-term viability and credibility of the predicted return of the investment. External factors caused by the climate we find ourselves in has forced a large write down to one of our holdings, Carpe Valorem, to 31.24p in the pound based on the lowest prices achieved in recent underlying investments by Carpe Valorem themselves. We believe this to be an unreasonable assessment of the true value of the investment over the longer-term. Furthermore, the investment is now suspended and in a state of winding up. The assets will now be sold or redeemed over a shorter time span than originally anticipated. The effect of winding down Carpe Valorem has had a material impact on the value of the two FACET funds. While this is being resolved, our ACD WAY Fund Managers have taken the decision to temporarily suspend investments into, or redemptions from the funds. As managers of the fund, we will do everything we can to realise the best price possible for this single asset which, we believe, has been priced well below its true value. The FACET Balanced Fund fell 3.16% in September.
